Performing Without Exhausting

This presentation helps you perform and overcome challenges without exhausting yourself. It takes a look at work-life issues with laughter and guaranteed results! It also brings forth a definition of true happiness while supporting it with scientific evidence. "What's the point of making a living if we lose our sense of a happy life?" We hear it all the time! More than 50% of workers suffer from burnout, leading cause of disability in the country since 2009. Discover new ways to find balance.

Unity Through Responsibility, Adaptability and Collaboration

It is part of human nature to interact with others but why is it so challenging to be effective? We are destined to succeed as teams. This is how humans have survived over time. Our sense of survival, security, ego and motivation for recognition are all great personal success motivators. But they can be alarming barriers to our success as a team. Create durable synergy, improve communications, attitudes and help retain your best employees. With humor, this program proposes unforgettable metaphors and ideas.
