Speaker Biography:

Dr. Nothabo Ncube is an Inspirational TEDx Speaker, A Coach and A Millennial Mentor. Having overcome her own personal and professional obstacles, her powerful story encourages this generation to face their challenges and conquer them. Her story led her to meet the media mogul, Oprah Winfrey and just recently she shared her life journey on the TEDx platform and at a United Nations Women Event.

Through a whirlwind of inspirational lectures, round table discussions and media appearances she positively influences, challenges and reconnects youth with their passions. She uses incredible wit and candor to empower young girls and women.

Dr. Nothabo envisions a world where all millennials are given the opportunity to become the best versions of themselves, not only to dream bigger dreams, but to create and shape the world they have always desired. Having lost her mother at the tender age of 14, at her mother's death bed, she made a promise to her to be a doctor in Zimbabwe.

Destiny led her to Canada where she and her family found themselves living in Community Housing in Toronto, subjected to social ills that could have deterred her from her path, despite these circumstances she rose from the ashes. Her journey leading to the fulfillment of the promise has been one filled with loss, pain, failures, mistakes, resilience, courage, faith, hope, grace and overcoming adversity.

She has been spotted on Global News and on the cover page of the Canadian Immigrant Magazine. Through her dedication to make global impact she was nominated to be on the 2019 Most Influential People of African Descent (MIPAD), Under 40, Global 100. She is now on a mission to empower, to educate, to encourage, to enlighten, to inspire, to uplift and to motivate this generation to use pain as a pedestal toward the pinnacle of purpose.

Turning pain into purpose:

In your hero journey, you will experience a lot of twists and turns. These defining moments will lead you to your true self - your life's purpose. It is often through the gift of pain, struggles and our chaos that we stumble on our calling. Our circumstances are the gifts that keep on giving. They help us awaken to our essence. Having overcome her own personal and professional struggles, lost her mother at the tender age of 14 in Zimbabwe, it was the pain of losing her mother that propelled her to make a promise to become a doctor.

Destiny led her to Canada affording her the opportunity not only to realise this dream but now to pursue the deepest desires of her heart of using her voice and story to inspire and motivate. Dr.Thabo is on a mission to shine a light in other people's dark places so they too, can fearlessly and courageously turn their struggles into strength and their pain into purpose. Her powerful life- changing story led her to meet the media mogul, Oprah Winfrey.

She, recently shared herstory on the TEDx platform and on Global News. Through her dedication to make global impact, she was selected by Canadian Immigrant Magazine as a Woman Of Inspiration/Influence 2019 and nominated by RBC Canadian Women Entrepreneur for the "ones to watch" award. It is her soul-intention to give others hope and help humanity awaken to the power of their own stories and their purpose.

You become what you believe:

Our words and thoughts have the power to shape our destiny. It is the narrative that you hold true about yourself that is manifesting in your life everyday as your reality. Be mindful of the stories that you tell yourself about who you are. I am here today doing the work that brings me joy and brings joy to the lives my voice is called to touch because of a promise I made to myself and to my dear mother on her death bed. I am a testimony that, "You become what you believe". You are the master creator of your destiny. Your life has meaning. Your life has purpose. Everything you need to fulfill your calling is right within inside of you. I am here to help you unleash your true highest potential.

Overcoming adversity:

We all have been through something that has threatened our livelihood. Those moments can be paralyzing and sometimes the numbing effect stays for some time while we try to understand and accept what just occurred. These moments reveal to us who we are, our resilience and our life's purpose. What if I told you, your challenges, circumstances, and adversities are your greatest gifts. It is the pain of losing my mother at a tender age that led me on a purpose trajectory I never imagined for myself. When my mother passed away, I made a promise to her to become a doctor. This promise has served as a guiding light in my journey leading me to a life of giving people hope and serving humanity. Your hardest moments often lead you to your greatest moments. My hope for you is that you will shift the lens through which you see your adversities and recognize that they are the gifts that keep on giving. Her powerful life- changing story led her to meet the media mogul, Oprah Winfrey.
